Sir:

We, the undersigned, Donna K. Lencki, Chris Henchey and Patrick B. Miller, as the named inventors in the subject application, do hereby declare that:

1. Independent claim 1, reads as follows:

1. A method of providing benefits to an employee comprising:

receiving an insurance coverage package selection from the employee, wherein the insurance coverage package corresponds to a benefit type and automatically includes coverage under a plurality of benefit categories associated with the benefit type;

for each of the plurality of benefit categories automatically included in the package, simultaneously displaying a plurality of different line items associated with the benefit category to the employee on a user interface accessible through a computer network, wherein each of the different line items displayed on the interface includes (i) an out-of-pocket cost parameter that corresponds to out-of-pocket costs paid by the employee for use of coverage provided under the benefit category and (ii) a corresponding benefit cost to the employee for purchasing the coverage under the benefit category; and wherein the benefit cost presented to the employee for at least one of the different line items associated with the benefit category is non-zero;

for each of the plurality of benefit categories automatically included in the package, receiving via the user interface a purchase selection from the employee corresponding to one of the plurality of different line items associated with the benefit category; and providing the insurance coverage package corresponding to the benefit type and including the plurality of benefit categories to the employee in accordance with the purchase selections made by the employee.

2. Independent claim 21, reads as follows:

21. A method of providing healthcare to an employee comprising:

receiving an insurance coverage package selection from the employee, wherein the insurance coverage package corresponds to a benefit type and automatically includes coverage under a plurality of benefit categories associated with the benefit type;

for each of the plurality of benefit categories automatically included in the package, simultaneously displaying a plurality of different healthcare line items associated with the benefit category to the employee on a user interface accessible through a computer network, wherein each of the different line items displayed on the interface includes (i) an out-of-pocket cost parameter that corresponds to out-of-pocket costs paid by the employee for use of coverage provided under the benefit category and (ii) a corresponding benefit cost to the employee for purchasing the coverage under the benefit category; and wherein the benefit cost presented to the employee for at least one of the different line items associated with the benefit category is non-zero;

for each of the plurality of benefit categories automatically included in the package, receiving via the user interface a purchase selection from the employee corresponding to one of the plurality of different line items associated with the benefit category; and providing the insurance coverage package corresponding to the benefit type and including the plurality of benefit categories to the employee in accordance with the purchase selections made by the employee.

3. Independent claim 40, as currently amended, reads as follows:

40. A method of establishing a health care benefits offering to an employee group comprising: establishing a healthcare cost for said group; and establishing a plurality of different health care line items based on said healthcare cost;
said method further comprising:

receiving an insurance coverage package selection from an employee in the group, wherein the insurance coverage package corresponds to a benefit type and automatically includes coverage under a plurality of benefit categories associated with the benefit type; for each of the plurality of benefit categories automatically included in the package, simultaneously displaying the plurality of different line items to the employee on a user interface accessible through a computer network, wherein each of the different line items displayed on the interface is associated with the benefit category and includes (i) an out-of-pocket cost parameter that corresponds to out-of-pocket costs paid by the employee for use of coverage provided under the benefit category and (ii) a corresponding benefit cost to the employee for purchasing the coverage under the benefit category; and wherein the benefit cost presented to the employee for at least one of the different line items associated with the benefit category is non-zero;

for each of the plurality of benefit categories automatically included in the package, receiving via the user interface a purchase selection from the employee corresponding to one of the plurality of different line items associated with the benefit category; and providing the insurance coverage package corresponding to the benefit type and including the plurality of benefit categories to the employee in accordance with the purchase selections made by the employee.

4. Independent claim 70, as currently amended, reads as follows:

70. A system for providing benefits to an employee comprising: at least one database; at least one processor for accessing said database; and a user-interface accessible through a computer network for accessing said processor;
wherein the at least one processor receives an insurance coverage package selection from the employee via the user-interface, wherein the insurance coverage package corresponds to a benefit type and automatically includes coverage under a plurality of benefit categories associated with the benefit type;
wherein for each of the plurality of benefit categories automatically included in the package, the user-interface simultaneously displays a plurality of different line items associated with the benefit category to the employee, wherein each of the different line items displayed on the interface includes (i) an out-of-pocket cost parameter stored in the at least one database and corresponding to out-of-pocket costs paid by the employee for use of coverage provided under the benefit category and (ii) a corresponding benefit cost to the employee for purchasing the coverage under the benefit category, said corresponding benefit cost being stored in the at least one database; and wherein the benefit cost presented to the employee for at least one of the different line items associated with the benefit category is non-zero;
wherein for each of the plurality of benefit categories automatically included in the package, the at least one processor receives via the user interface a purchase selection from the employee corresponding to one of the plurality of different line items associated with the benefit category; and wherein the at least one processor is used for providing the insurance coverage package corresponding to the benefit type and including the plurality of benefit categories to the employee in accordance with the purchase selections made by the employee.

5. Independent claim 106, as currently amended, reads as follows:

106. A method of providing benefits to an employee comprising:
receiving an insurance coverage package selection from the employee, wherein the insurance coverage package corresponds to a benefit type and automatically includes coverage under a plurality of benefit categories associated with the benefit type;
for each of the plurality of benefit categories automatically included in the package, simultaneously displaying a plurality of different health insurance line items associated with the benefit category to the employee on a user interface accessible through a computer network; wherein each of the different line items displayed on the interface includes (i) an out-of-pocket cost parameter that corresponds to out-of-pocket costs paid by the employee for use of coverage provided under the benefit category and (ii) a corresponding benefit cost to the employee for purchasing the coverage under the benefit category; and wherein the benefit cost presented to the employee for at least one of the different line items associated with the benefit category is non-zero;
identifying a predefined employer contribution to said employee on said user interface for purchase of at least one of said line items;
for each of the plurality of benefit categories automatically included in the package, receiving via the user interface a purchase selection from the employee corresponding to one of the plurality of different line items associated with the benefit category;
storing data representing each said line item purchased by said employee; transmitting said data to a benefit claims processing vendor configured to build a benefit profile for said employee based on said data; and providing the insurance coverage package corresponding to the benefit type and including the plurality of benefit categories to the employee in accordance with the purchase selections made by the employee.

6. The subject matter of independent claims 1, 21, 40, 70 and 106 was conceived prior to April 25, 2000.

7. Exhibit A is a true copy of a document evidencing conception.

8. The sheets attached as Exhibit A are dated prior to April 25, 2000.

9. Exhibit A shows employee benefit option package examples which embody a simultaneous display of a plurality of different line items associated with the benefit category. Tables shown on pages 1-3 of Exhibit A demonstrate benefit categories automatically included in the package and simultaneously displays line item choice selections. The line item choice selections embodied in the tables illustrate the concept of having an out-of-pocket cost parameter that corresponds to out-of pocket costs paid by the employee for use of coverage provided under the benefit category.

10. The third bullet point down on page 1 of Exhibit A indicates that the system will “tell the employee how much each choice costs” indicating that each of the line item choices will include a corresponding benefit cost to the employee for purchasing the coverage under the benefit category.

11. Exhibit A also indicates that the benefits package selections are to be provided on a user interface accessible through a computer network when it references “[t]here will be a display box on the screen at all times that will tell the employee how much each choice costs” and when it references “[w]hen employees are selecting benefits, we can also have ‘pop up’ suggestions for additional services.”

12. Exhibit A also indicates conception of allowing a benefits package whereby a user interface displays line items for purchase by an employee in a manner that allows the employee to build a custom benefit plan.

13. During the time period from just prior to April 25, 2000 to a reduction to practice of the claimed subject matter, reduction to practice of the claimed subject matter was diligently pursued by continuously working to build and refine a system including the subject matter of claims 1, 21, 40, 70 and 106.

14. Exhibit B is a true copy showing email correspondence received by and sent from Patrick Miller’s email account from April 19, 2000 to December 27, 2000.

15. The subject lines of the email correspondence in Exhibit B indicate that diligent effort was being applied to reduce the subject matter of claims 1, 21, 40, 70 and 106 to practice during the time period from April 19, 2000 through commercial launch of the system on November 15, 2000 and to December 27, 2000.

16. Exhibit B shows that communications occurred nearly every business day during the period from April 19, 2000 to December 27, 2000, which reflects the diligent effort being applied to reduce a system consistent with claims 1, 21, 40, 70 and 106 to practice.

17. Exhibit C is a true copy of a letter referencing an Agreement dated May 1, 2000 between Milliman & Robertson, Inc. and Choicelinx Corporation. Milliman & Robertson were engaged to perform actuarial modeling for the online healthcare benefits selection application.

18. During the time period of May 2000, a group was commissioned to test the concept of an online healthcare benefits system with the public which indicates diligence in reducing the concept to practice by way of testing consumer usability of a system consistent with claims 1, 21, 40, 70 and 106.

19. Exhibits D and E describe the creation of various focus groups.

20. Exhibit D is a true copy of a report issued by The Taylor Research & Consulting Group, Inc. prepared for Choicelinx dated May 2000. Page 1 of Exhibit D indicates that two focus groups and 10 usability interviews had been established which shows diligence in collecting information pertinent to the creation of an online healthcare benefits program.

21. Exhibit D, Page 2, also discusses consumer reactions to the concept of customized benefits and consumer feedback. Gathering such information and feedback from consumers shows that diligent effort was being applied to test usability of a user interface consistent with claims 1, 21, 40, 70 and 106.

22. Exhibit E is a true copy of a memorandum dated May 5, 2000 from Paul DesBarres, Aimee Syverson and Elliot Scharff, employees of The Taylor Research & Consulting Group, Inc. to Dave Moore, Patrick Miller and Heather Staples, employees of Choicelinx.

23. Exhibit E, page 1, shows a schedule of available dates and cities to hold focus groups to test the interest in and usability of a system consistent with claims 1, 21, 40, 70 and 106.

24. Exhibit F is a true copy of slides created for a presentation to be performed in or about May of 2000 before UnitedHealth Group by Choicelinx, which indicates the progress being made towards creation of software and launch of a website offering healthcare benefit categories and simultaneous display of line item choice selections consistent with claims 1, 21, 40, 70 and 106.

25. Slide 2, Page 1, of Exhibit F contains an itemized listing of the steps already accomplished towards software and website creation and launch, such as selection of a web design firm and initialization of site design.

26. Exhibit G is a true copy of email correspondences from Tim Poole to Greg Foster dated May 17, 2000 referencing Tim Poole's planned trip to Birmingham, Alabama from Manchester, New Hampshire.

27. Exhibit G references the certain points which Tim Poole wished to discuss when he arrived in Birmingham all with regard to the further development of the system named in the claimed invention.

28. Exhibit G references the parties' intent to discuss the enrollment and benefits systems and the different technologies which can be used for the benefit and member integration and other integration issues. These communications represent the effort being applied to integrate member data into the system which reflects diligent pursuit towards reducing the claimed invention to practice.

29. Successful testing of a prototype website consistent with claims 1, 21, 40, 70 and 106, was accomplished during at least one of the May 2000 focus group meetings.

30. Exhibit H is a true copy of a version of the user interface of the prototype website tested in May of 2000 at one of the focus groups. Exhibit H shows the website at each step that a user would encounter as he goes through the site.

31. Exhibit H shows a benefits selection user interface which indicates the benefit category included in the package, simultaneously displaying a plurality of line items associated with the identified benefit category. The different line items displayed indicate an out of pocket cost to the employee, or co-pay amount, for use of coverage produced under the benefit category and corresponding benefit cost to the employee for purchasing the coverage under the benefit category.

32. The prototype website embodied in Exhibit H was consistent with claims 1, 21, 40, 70 and 106.

33. Exhibit I is a true copy of emails sent between Alyssa McKenzie, Heather Staples and Patrick Miller on June 15, 2000. These email communications reference further refinement being made to websites for "the configurator" and "enrollment". The bottom portion of the email from Alyssa McKenzie to Heather Staples specifically notes fine tuning, testing links, and cleaning up the code.

34. Exhibit J is a true copy of email correspondence from Patrick Miller to Heather Staples dated June 16, 2000 which references Patrick Miller's comments on "config", referring to the benefit selection tool consistent with claims 1, 21, 40, 70 and 106.

35. Exhibit J indicates that certain portions of the prototype website were being further refined such as changing some of the wording on the user interface screens as to be clearer and more precise and refining aspects of some of the design features of the website such as relocating the "next/back" buttons as they appear on the website. These suggested further refinements to the wording and overall design reflects that the website was functioning and effort was being maintained in support of commercialization launch of the product.

36. Exhibit K is a true copy of email correspondence between Patrick Miller and Lori Hyde dated June 15, 2000 and June 20, 2000 discussing technical requirements for Clarify v9.0, a tool used in connection with call center management. This communication evidences activity occurring in connection with a system that would support users of a system consistent with claims 1, 21, 40, and 106 in an effort toward commercialization.

37. Exhibit L is a true copy of an email correspondence from David Moore to employees of the Choicelinx Corporation dated June 29, 2000 which announces that new revisions to the enrollment and benefits screens on the website have been made.

38. Exhibit L references new "skin" to the benefit screens being created which indicates that the overall website's design features continued to be refined and commercialization was being pursued.

39. Exhibit M is a true copy of an email correspondence from Patrick Miller to Mark Levesque dated July 3, 2000, which identifies certain tasks to be performed during the week with regard to a system to support various applications, including an application consistent with claims 1, 21, 40, 70 and 106.

40. Exhibit N is a true copy of an email correspondence from Lori Hyde to employees of Choicelinx Corporation dated July 6, 2000 discussing issues to be addressed with various systems and business processes, which activities evidence work being performed in support of a system consistent with claims 1, 21, 40, 70 and 106 in an effort toward commercialization.

41. Exhibit O is a true copy of a presentation given at a Choicelinx workgroup meeting on July 14, 2000. The purpose of this presentation and workgroup meeting was to assess the product concept, discuss environmental considerations, go over product alternatives, and develop alternatives.

42. Exhibit O, on page 6 references that Choicelinx "has demonstrated the due diligence typically required for a successful project" with regard to its technology.

43. Exhibit O, on page 11, references the underlying problems with the actuarial rate model indicating diligence in identifying problems in order to refine the system in support of commercialization of a system consistent with claims 1, 21, 40, 70 and 106.

44. Exhibit O, pages 12 and 13, reference potential alternative system changes in further support commercialization of a system consistent with claims 1, 21, 40, 70 and 106.

45. Exhibit P is a true copy of an email correspondence from Chryss LaRoche to Kerri Coons and Patrick Miller dated July 20, 2000 and July 21, 2000, which refers to modifications being made to further refine a system in support of a system consistent with claims 1, 21, 40, 70 and 106.

46. Exhibit Q is a true copy of an email correspondence from Lori Hyde to Terry Weber and Patrick Miller dated July 21, 2000 and a response email from Patrick Miller also dated July 21, 2000, which refer to further discussions being made regarding the overall design of the virtual benefit plan software for a system consistent with claims 1, 21, 40, 70 and 106.

47. Exhibit Q refers to the virtual benefit plan data flow being successfully reviewed during the week but more attention needed to be paid to the design features of the program and what needs to be manually built.

48. Exhibit R is a true copy of email correspondences dated July 26, 2000 and July 27, 2000 between Patrick Miller and Lori Hyde which refer to refinement of benefit codes for a system consistent with claims 1, 21, 40, 70 and 106.

49. Exhibit S is a true copy of a portion of Choicelinx Corporation Management's Discussion and Analysis of Financial Condition and Results of Operation dated August 1, 2000. The purpose of the discussion was to review the progress the company had made in creating a personalized healthcare benefits system and discuss the company's financial outlook.

50. Exhibit S, page 1, discusses the key events which had taken place since the initial funding of Choicelinx.

51. Exhibit S, page 1, lower portion, references completion of the alpha software product release and creation of technical design specifications for self-service transaction user interfaces.

52. Exhibit S, page 1, lower portion, references completion of eight consumer focus groups and completion of user interface review and testing. This suggests that the initial system software was at a stage where it was functioning at least in some respects to demonstrate the concept of configuring benefit choices.

53. Exhibit S, page 2, second paragraph, discusses product development. This section describes the various elements associated with further refining the system, e.g. hiring of personnel for engineering and product development and expenditures related to web-based technology design and content, payment of design consultants, server maintenance costs and software development and operation expenses.

54. Exhibit T is a true copy of email correspondence from Patrick Miller to Kevin Clark dated August 9, 2000, which discusses looking to hire someone for QA of web development and systems integration (feeds and real time calls) relating to various systems including systems to be developed in support of a system consistent with claims 1, 21, 40, 70 and 106.

55. Exhibit U is a true copy of an email from Lori Hyde to Patrick Miller, among others, dated August 16, 2000, which reports updates that had been made to a system consistent with claims 1, 21, 40, 70 and 106.

56. Exhibit V is a true copy of an email from Patrick Miller to Lori Hyde dated August 30, 2000, which reveals communications being made regarding automation of "benefits autobuilding", relating to a system consistent with claims 1, 21, 40, 70 and 106 and managing multiple provider networks.

57. Exhibit W is a true copy of an email from Lori Hyde to Patrick Miller dated September 7, 2000, regarding a new server in place and release of the Clarify system, referenced above in statement 36 with reference to Exhibit K, and efforts being made to perform a company demonstration in the coming weeks. This communication evidences activity occurring in connection with the Clarify system, which would support users of a system consistent with claims 1, 21, 40, 70 and 106 in an effort toward commercialization.

58. Exhibit W describes a list of tasks to be performed by employees including working on technical aspects, demo scripts and product functionality of the Clarify system.

59. Exhibit X is a true copy of an email from David Moore to Choicelinx Corporation employees dated September 12, 2000, which encloses a copy of notes taken from a test plan meeting where tasks were assigned to certain employees for work to be performed on systems and business processes that would support a system consistent with claims 1, 21, 40, 70 and 106 in an effort toward commercialization.

60. Exhibit Y is a true copy of an email from Patrick Miller to Agnes Rey-Giraud, Chris Smith, Deb Benard, Lori Hyde, Patrick Miller, Heather Staples and Tim Poole dated September 29, 2000, discussing integration between the Choicelinx systems and those of ESI (a pharmacy benefits administrator), which activities evidence work being performed on systems that would support a system consistent with claims 1, 21, 40, 70 and 106 in an effort toward commercialization.

61. Exhibit Z is a true copy of an email from Karen Riley to Lori Hyde and Patrick Miller, among others, and a reply email from Lori Hyde to Karen Riley and Patrick Miller, among others, both dated September 29, 2000, announcing the release of the latest version of the public website in an effort toward commercialization of a system consistent with claims 1, 21, 40, 70 and 106, and review of said site with comment and suggestions to further refine the user interface design and layout, such as changing flashing wording and brightening up the user login screen.

62. Exhibit AA is a true copy of an email from Patrick Miller to Deb Polakowski and Lori Hyde dated October 3, 2000, referring to integration of the an API to TXEN being complete within Clarify which activities evidence work being performed on systems that would support a system consistent with claims 1, 21, 40, 70 and 106 in an effort toward commercialization.

63. Exhibit BB is a true copy of a reply email from Deb Polakowski to Lori Hyde and Patrick Miller dated October 3, 2000, in response to the email referenced in statement 62 above, regarding trouble in connecting the system due to potential issues with some of the drivers. The communication specifically mentions that the problems are diligently being worked on.

64. The bottom portion of Exhibit CC is a true copy of an email from Patrick Miller to Tracy Turner dated October 6, 2000 which refers to comments and suggestions being made to the public website.

65. The top portion of Exhibit CC is a true copy of the reply email from Tracy Turner to Patrick Miller dated October 9, 2000 reflects the diligence being applied in refining the public website further to the comments and suggestions made by Patrick Miller in his email of October 6, 2000, which activities evidence work being performed in an effort toward commercialization of a system consistent with claims 1, 21, 40, 70 and 106.

66. Exhibit DD is a true copy of an email correspondence from Patrick Miller to David Moore and Lori Hyde dated October 26, 2000 regarding feature lists. The reference to a "benefits module" refers to a module on a website interface consistent with claims 1, 21, 40, 70 and 106.

67. Exhibit EE is a true copy of email correspondences dated November 1, 2000, November 2, 2000 and November 5, 2000 referencing ongoing discussions regarding reference adding a front end firewall to the website for a system that would support several applications, including an application consistent with claims 1, 21, 40, 70 and 106. The Exhibit also references that this will be an addition to the already existing website protection.

68. Exhibit FF is a true copy of the accepted Addendum to the existing contract between NaviSite, Inc. and Choicelinx Corporation for the purchase of additional firewall protection for a system that would support several applications, including an application consistent with claims 1, 21, 40, 70 and 106.

69. Exhibit GG is a true copy of a press release dated November 15, 2000 which announces the official public launch of the first Internet-based benefits configuration technology for creating unique healthcare benefits packages by allowing employees to choose the level of coverage they wish in the field of health care consistent with claims 1, 21, 40, 70 and 106.

70. Exhibit GG, page 1, discusses the healthcare benefits choices from which a consumer can choose while the consumer is presented with information about the cost of the benefits available for selection. This language reflects the user interface described in the claimed invention as benefit categories displayed while simultaneously displaying a plurality of different line items associated with the benefit category to the employee wherein the different line items displayed include a corresponding benefit cost to the employee for purchasing the coverage under the benefit category.

71. Exhibit GG, page 2, further describes the actuarial model which allows for expanded choice while simultaneously managing selection risk in a system consistent with claims 1, 21, 40, 70 and 106.

72. Exhibit GG, page 2, also describes how the technology can be offered through traditional insurance companies, which creates the inference that the system provides insurance coverage packages as described in the claimed invention.

73. Exhibit HH is a true copy of email correspondence from Lori Hyde to Patrick Miller, Kerri Coons, and Heather Staples dated November 22, 2000 presenting a development process update, and discussing responsibilities in connection with the development process that would be used for all development activities throughout the company, including continued development of a system including the subject matter of claims 1, 21, 40, 70 and 106.

74. Exhibit II is a true copy of a press release dated November 28, 2000 which describes the trend in healthcare.

75. Exhibit II discusses the Internet-based benefits configuration technology developed by Choicelinx which is described as a system which offers employees the ability to configure unique healthcare benefits packages according to specific family healthcare needs which is consistent with claims 1, 21, 40, 70 and 106.

76. Exhibit JJ is a true copy of email correspondence from Patrick Miller to Kerri Coons dated December 12, 2000 presenting an overview of the system integration between Choicelinx and ESI (referred to above in statement 60) and discussing responsibilities for continued development, which activities evidence work being performed on systems that would support a system consistent with claims 1, 21, 40, 70 and 106.

77. Exhibit KK is a true copy of email correspondence from Patrick Miller to Lori Hyde dated December 18, 2000 discussing that the quality assurance database for Clarify (referenced above in statement 36) was ready, which activities evidence work being performed on systems that would support a system consistent with claims 1, 21, 40, 70 and 106.

- These are some examples of how the packages of benefits within the configurator would look. Additionally, we need to allow for the ability to have provider networks (or networks within networks) be the Choice A or Choice B differentiators (ie, one IPA versus another or one pharmacy chain versus another).
- The shaded columns consist of the employer's standard options. No one can select any level of benefits below this. The employee can then choose from the other choices in order to "buy up" coverage.
- It is expected that there will be a display box on the screen at all times that will tell the employee how much each choice costs.
- When employees are selecting benefits, we can also have "pop up" suggestions for additional services. For example, after selecting Office Visit choice, a box could pop up and say "Would you like to consider an eyewear benefit that would allow you to spend pre-tax dollars? Yes or No."

Boston Focus Groups

TOPLINE REPORT

May 2000

Background

Choicelinx commissioned The Taylor Research & Consulting Group, Inc. to test the interest in, and usability of, a new concept that provides healthcare benefits online.

Completed for Choicelinx thus far are 2 focus groups in Boston and a set of 10 usability interviews at The Taylor Group's office in Portsmouth, New Hampshire among friends and family of Choicelinx, Eyeon Interactive, and The Taylor Group. This topline report will provide an overview of the key themes discovered during the Boston focus groups. A full report at the end of the project will include more detailed findings, interpretations, and recommendations on all research components completed and upcoming.

The objectives of the Boston focus groups were to gain a better understanding of:

- ⌚ The Internet usage and trust among benefits recipients age 25 to 39 (Young and Healthys) and age 40 to 54 (Baby Boomers)
- ⌚ How comfortable consumers are with their current healthcare benefits
- ⌚ How much control and choice they want with their healthcare benefits
- ⌚ How they prefer to access their healthcare benefits
- ⌚ How they want their benefits configured
- ⌚ Consumer reactions to:
 - * The Choicelinx concept
 - * The Choicelinx name
 - * The Choicelinx logo
 - * Proposed positioning statements
 - * Potential taglines

A note of caution is also in order. The results presented from this qualitative phase of the research are not statistically projectable to the population as a whole. This is because the sample size was not sufficiently large, and the selection process was not sufficiently random. Moreover, while every effort was made to minimize the effect of group dynamics on individual opinion, it is still possible that some group members' opinions reflected the influence of other participants in the discussions. In spite of its limitations, however, qualitative research is highly valuable for the depiction of the character of individual opinion and the depth of emotion and commitment to those beliefs. Qualitative research delivers a deep and vibrant picture of these beliefs and emotions, and it can carry substantial predictive power for customer preference in the marketplace.

Key Themes

Four key themes stood out from the focus groups:

- ① Consumers believe they are familiar with their benefits coverage but this knowledge did not appear extensive as the groups progressed.
- ① The concept was appealing many participants would like the opportunity to personalize their benefits to their family and lifestyle.
- ① Most were not comfortable having their healthcare and 401(K) under the same umbrella.
- ① The name and logo received lukewarm reactions.

Familiarity With Healthcare and the Internet

Both groups reported being familiar with their healthcare benefits and the choices they have made in configuring their benefits to meet the varying needs of themselves and their family members. However, as the discussion progressed, it became clear that familiarity with their current healthcare benefits was mostly limited to knowledge of copays and deductibles. The depth of their knowledge about specific coverages and other available options was much more limited.

The Baby Boomers were very open to and supportive of the idea of having online access to their healthcare benefits, regardless of whether their benefits are currently available as such. The Young and Healthys were also familiar with accessing healthcare information online many use benefits providers' Web sites for prescriptions, commercial health sites (such as Rx.com), and even the Internet as a research tool for switching benefits providers.

The Choicelinx Concept

Overall, the participants in both groups like the Choicelinx concept and found the idea of having the ability to choose and customize their benefits very appealing. The participants like the idea of an online healthcare service and saw the benefits over traditional paperwork as:

- ① quicker access to access information
- ① easier management of their benefits account
- ① more timely and up-to-date information
- ① the flexibility of being able to access information online from home or work

Despite these important benefits, recipients still want the element of human contact and would expect to have access to an 800 number they don't expect a Web site to be able to answer all of their questions. Though some said they would like customer service to be staffed around the clock, many said business hours would be adequate.

Participants said they like to have a choice in their healthcare plans, but many said they would be comfortable choosing from only two or three choices of healthcare plans, similar to what their current coverage provides. A few participants also subscribed to a "conspiracy theory" and were skeptical that they would be better off with a change to this plan. They believed it could be a way for their company to shortchange their benefits. This was not an overriding theme but does indicate the need for employers to communicate the motives behind a significant change in benefits offerings.

Security was an issue for some, and they were wary of how much information would be displayed on the site. While a user's name and address appearing onscreen would be fine, displaying user medical records or e-mailing test results would not be acceptable for many. Access to private information by employers was also not seen as appropriate.

Healthcare Benefits and 401(K)

To these consumers, the idea of having their healthcare benefits and their 401(K) managed by the same service seemed odd and made them uncomfortable. When seeing 401(K) mentioned in the concept statement, many found it out of place, since we were talking about health insurance. With the Baby Boomers, there were concerns of safety regarding the idea of a new service "taking over" a pension plan that had been handled by a financial house for years. As one participant put it, "Motor oil belongs in the shop, orange juice belongs in the fridge."

However, participants did like the idea of moving surplus money from their healthcare plan or discounts into their 401(K) or possibly toward a health club membership or eyeglasses. This would be an added value to most, though some said the discount or surplus money would have to be substantial (approximately $100 to $200 per year) to make it worth participating in such programs.

It is clear that the ability to integrate benefits, to the extent that flexible dollars can be distributed among them, is attractive, but the positioning of various types of benefits needs to be distinct and not overlapped.

The Choicelinx Brand

The Name & Logo

There was consistency between the groups on the reaction to the name. Most felt it did not convey healthcare in any way. Nearly all the participants asked, "Choice of what?" as they were at a loss over what was being offered. Several participants in each group said the name made them think of golfing or of a golf course, because to them the emphasis was on "linx." Others suggested the name Healthlinx as one that may be more applicable.

As with the name, the Choicelinx logo was not received in either group as something related to healthcare or benefits. The Baby Boomers were not turned off by the logo design, but distanced themselves from it, specifically citing an inability to make out the "x." The Young and Healthys were impressed with the design and color scheme but again saw nothing that gave them a healthcare or benefits frame of mind. However, some of the Young and Healthys said they would remember the logo if they saw it again.

It is important to note that neither the reactions to the name nor logo were negative they were just not positive. Participants were not offended by the name or logo; they just felt it did not clearly convey the service that was being provided. However, it may be the case that this is a name that will be presented to consumers in context and would therefore not require as close a linking to the service.

Descriptive Words

Participants were given a worksheet with a list of words and were asked to rate each word on a scale of one-to-five for how closely it described the Choicelinx service—one meaning that the word does not at all describe the service and five meaning that it describes the service very closely. Many words fell somewhere in the middle, but some consensus was reached for both words that do and do not describe the service:

Describe the service

- ⌚ Choice
- ⌚ Flexible
- ⌚ Individual
- ⌚ Personal

Do not describe the service

- ⌚ Revolutionary
- ⌚ New
- ⌚ Robust
- ⌚ Fun

Many liked the idea of the benefits being tailored to them, so words such as choice, flexible, individual, and personal were well liked by most. Many did not like the words revolutionary and new, because they believe that the service being provided is not new, rather it is an existing service on a different platform and that platform is not new. Some said the words robust and fun did not fit with a healthcare service at all.

Positioning Statements

For many participants, it was important for positioning statements to be clear and in plain English—they wanted the statements to describe exactly what the service was offering.

Many chose the following statement as the one that appealed to them the most, because it was the only option that indicated the service was a healthcare management company:

“Choicelinx is the first online healthcare management company to give you the tools and information to help create the benefits package that is right for you!”

This next statement was also appealing, because it conveys the personalization aspect; however, the criticism of this is that it does not mention healthcare:

“Choicelinx puts the power of choice back in the hands of the customer to design the benefits solution that best fits their needs”

The statement that almost all participants did not like, because of the term world leader (too pretentious) was:

“Choicelinx is the world leader in offering individuals the freedom to customize their benefits package to fit their lifestyles.”

Taglines

Nearly 90 percent of the participants chose "It's your life, it's your plan, it's your choice" as the tagline that appealed to them the most. Many described it as catchy, appealing, and descriptive. They also like that it incorporates the name.

"The power to be yourself" was received next best. Reactions to "Don't Conform, Go Configure" were largely negative, because many thought it sounded more tech-related than healthcare.

To Sum Up

- ① The participants like the idea of moving excess healthcare benefits dollars into their 401(K), but they are not comfortable with one service managing both. Other areas to which they would like to allocate excess dollars would be: health club memberships, eyeglasses, and massage therapy.
- ① Participants are focused on Choicelinx as a healthcare service and not as a comprehensive benefits service. They are not used to, and therefore not comfortable with, having multiple types of benefits integrated. However, this is not to say that they could not be won over with the appropriate messaging.
- ① The participants like the idea of accessing their healthcare benefits online, but they still want human contact available—i.e., an 800 number.
- ① The Choicelinx name was not well received by the participants—they believe the name should better reflect the service and convey healthcare. However, no one was turned off by the name, so if it were presented in context, it would be received more positively.
- ① The words flexible and choice best describe this service to the participants and resonate as attractive qualities.
- ① While participants would expect to hear about this service at work or from word of mouth, many also said that billboards would be another good source.

Looking Flight/Hotel

MEMORANDUM

To: Dave Moore, Patrick Miller, Heather Staples
From: Paul DesBarres, Aimee Syverson, Elliot Scharff
Date: May 5, 2000
Re: Focus Groups

Below is a chart outlining the available dates for the following cities during the week of May 22:

City	Dates
Chicago, IL	May 22, 23, 24, 25
San Diego, CA	May 23, 24
Portland, OR	May 23 (not a first hold), 24
Atlanta, GA	May 24, 25

Our suggested schedule for these focus groups is as follows:

- SA+ - Mon Hotel & Air Fare 1 Flight each
- ① May 22 - San Diego, CA
- PAT ① May 23 - Chicago, IL Airfare + 1 night
- ① May 24 - Atlanta, GA - Airfare + one night

Our fees for these groups assume recruitment for the non-consumer group would be done from a Choicelinx-provided list. The two options we've discussed are:

- ① Four focus groups:
- ③ 2 in each of 2 cities
 - ③ 2 consumer groups; 2 groups of HR benefits administrators, senior HR managers, recruiters, middle managers.
 - ③ FEE: $26,000
- ① Six focus groups
- ③ 2 in each of 3 cities
 - ③ 3 consumer groups; 3 groups of HR benefits administrators, senior HR managers, recruiters, middle managers.
 - ③ FEE: $29,000

The fees would include revisions to the existing consumer discussion guide, a new discussion guide for the non-consumer groups, and a topline report (3-5 pages) covering this set of focus groups. The fees include all aspects of the project, except expenses associated with travel and lodging for the Taylor project team, which will be billed at cost at the completion of the project.

Subject: Visit on the 23rd

Hi Greg,

My itinerary is as follows:

Arriving in Birmingham 5/22 @ 9:45 PM
Leaving Birmingham 5/23 @ 4:55 PM

Unfortunately, the flight back to NH is a little earlier than I would have liked. Can we start early on the 23rd, perhaps at 7 AM?

Thanks,
Tim

Hi Greg,

Hope everything is well. I'm planning on arriving in Birmingham on Monday evening, and hoping to leave as late as possible on Tuesday (the flights are still in the process of being booked).

I'd like to cover the following items while in Birmingham:

- Benefit and member integration between NicholsTXEN MHS and the Choicelinx enrollment and benefit systems.
- Discussion of different technologies which can be used for EDI (especially XML).
- Discussion of QP API capabilities on the NicholsTXEN system.
- General discussion of other integration issues.

The first item is of paramount importance, if we have time to discuss the other items great, otherwise we can pick them up later. Lori, do you have anything else you'd like to add?

I look forward to seeing you and Terry. Thanks for your help, Tim benefit selection: before you begin

Selecting your benefits will take you approximately 15 to 20 minute assist you in the selection process Choicelinx has developed the fo features:

Contribution Meter

The contribution meter will appear at the bottom of each page to total employer contribution you have available to spend. You can employer's contribution go farther by choosing a higher copaymen coinsurance amount.

Copayments—

are the amounts that you pay out of your own pocket at the time a service is provided.

Coinsurance—

is the percentage of an expense that you pay. The insur pays the rest. Choicelinx pays 100 percent of the costs once your coinsurance expenses reach $500 per person or $1,000 per family.

It makes sense to keep copayment and coinsurance low for servi expect to use a lot. That way you won't have to worry about payin of your own pocket for each visit or prescription. But if you don't need a service, choosing a higher copay or coinsurance may red cost of the benefit on a monthly basis.

How do I Choose

Not sure how to select the benefits that are right for you? We've g guidance in the How Do I Choose? link on each page.

What's Covered

While you are selecting a specific benefit you will have the ability details about an item covered by that benefit.

Hi Heather,

Whew! I reposted the configurator and posted enrollment. If you could look through enrollment (since we didn't have as much time as I used on the config) that would be fantastic. I'm most concerned with the flow. We'll be looking through it too - fine tuning, testing links, and cleaning up the code for Tim.
Let me know if you find anything.

ENROLLMENT COMMENTS

- need to add the privacy policy and screen shot of the ID card
- "are you disabled?" should be "do you have a disability?"
- do you think that the email addresses should be broken out by the "@" sign in two fields? was this done for data integrity reasons?
- Why do We Ask screens are in two different formats on the Contact Info pages (did not check every screen to make sure it works)
- "Enrollment: Who's Covered" font on 3rd page is too small
- The copy "Don't plan on staying in one place? Choicelinx will contact you wherever you want." is a bit flip or misleading as to what we want them to do.
- Secondary Contact Info should also include "work address" in the copy.
- I'm not sure I like the idea of giving them start and stop dates for second addresses. What are we really going to do with this information? We have also not verified how TXEN, PBMs, etc will be able to accept this info.
- For multiple addresses screen, why are we defaulting current address and phone #?
- Assuming that DHTML will be working on OI page.
- Should "Why do we Ask" be on the "Find a Doc" page? Same with Summary page. Does it apply here?
- HHealth Review font type/size is wrong and still in the Enrollment section vs. after benefits
- Enrollment Summary font type/size is wrong.

CONFIG COMMENTS

- next/back buttons should be higher up on the "before you begin" and "pie" pages OR maybe put them at the top too?
- What's Covered text is missing
- Not all dollars were calculated in the selection box
- Employee benefit dollars box was not grayed out
- Dollars on Dental screen are incorrect under "This Benefit" on Meter
- FSA screen is SWEET
- Likewise for MEd Financing
- On the benefits summary -- something seems odd but i cannot place it -- maybe just the colors. info seems to be there. "Confirm" at top and bottom is good.
- should put reference to the ID card on the "Complete" page wiht a hyperlink to the card and its contents. Also hyperlink on "SPD" would be good.
- Need to put the HHealth Review page in here with the copy that Dave was doing on why it is a good idea to fill it out and why Healthy Lifestyles is a good place for members to spend time.

This is getting there!!!

Hey,

Here's the tech requirements for Clarify v9.0. Looks like they're referencing two servers that we'd need 1. for rule and email management with a separate server for the Routing Engine?

Not sure of the validity of that but, here's the specs

Hi Mark -

Hope you enjoyed the pool today. Seemed like a good day to be poolside.

I need you to get three main things done this week:

1- RFP out the door to hosting vendors - in order to get all the lines ordered to connect the hosting vendor, it looks like July 15th needs to be our decision day. This means I need the contract signed/or a letter of intent. I'd also like to review the RFP before it goes out. I'm thinking no later than Thursday it should go - we can ask more questions later if needed.

2- TXEN connectivity - Lori and Chyrss need to be on the system. We have a lot of questions needing answering that they need the system for.

3- VPN - not sure if you've been able to contact George or not. If not, why don't you get someone else in here. Any clue as to how many hours/cost this will be?

Additionally, I think Paula starts Wednesday, but I'm assuming you have her PC set up somewhere already.

See you Wednesday.

Thanks,
Pat

Hey Jonathan,

Were you able to find some time with Terry, Kent (I'm not sure who else) to discuss Provider Issues today? I have the provider layouts from PHCS but, only in Paper form. I'll try to get electronically before next week but, I'll bring down the hard copy anyways. If we can't meet today or tomorrow could you get a list of the issues that we need to work with PHCS on and we'll start with that. So far I have:

1. Maintenance of Fed ID #
2. Complexity of the Fee Schedules (Contract maintenance on the docs)
3. Operation activities (Doctor not found, pricing not found, what do we do if contract is not updated due to lack of data and claim is paid incorrectly, etc)

Also, could I get a copy of the timeline as it stands today, again not to look at dates but, the list of tasks so I can start reviewing them.

Were you able to open the excel spreadsheet from our Benefits database for review? Do you think it's possible to get Office 2000, if not we'll have to setup a standard to save docs, etc down to previous versions to make sure you can review. I'm not sure if we can do that with the Benefits Database however, so if you could get 2000 that would be awesome.

Also, please let me know what you need from us to complete the Assumptions doc so that we can head towards finalizing the timeline. I think we agreed yesterday that the three high level objectives for my visit next week are:

1. Discuss timeline, where we're at and dates that are yet to be finalized
2. Discuss the Virtual Benefit Plan and our product offering to define how we'll setup the VB Plan and develop our interface.
3. Discuss Provider data.
4. Overview of your Project organization methods going forward (establishing regular meetings, minutes, will we keep an issues log, etc.) We've started shooting several emails/questions to you and I want to make sure we keep track of everything whether it's me, you or both of us.

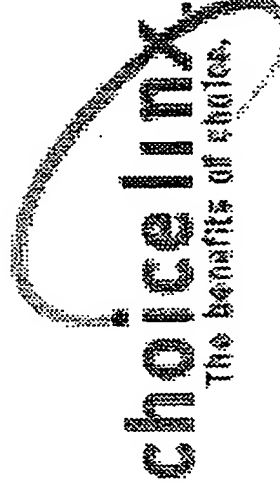

Thanks!

Summary

TECHNOLOGY REVIEW

Our technology review resulted in several overall conclusions

- Choicelinx has an impressive cadre of staff
- Choicelinx uses industry-accepted procedures and methodologies for:
 - System development
 - Formal documentation
 - Requirement definitions
 - System specifications
 - Test plans
- Choicelinx's technology platform is widely used and at "industry standard"
- It is difficult to estimate the technology end product since Choicelinx is still in design and early development phase
- Choicelinx has demonstrated the due diligence typically required for a successful project
- Several areas should be further evaluated
 - Transition from development company to technology company
 - Integration with employer HRIS
 - Integration with multiple MCO/TPA administration systems

TECHNOLOGY REVIEW

Conclusions on technology staffing and organization

- Technology staff are competent and generally experienced in the work
- The lack of large scale project rollout and operations experience may be a concern down the line
- The employee experience level is only as good as ChoiceInX's selected partner design firm

Conclusions on technology process

Conclusions

- Processes are experienced-based rather than formally documented, which is appropriate at this stage of maturity
- Functions and product definitions are based on key employee experience versus extensive market research.
 - Appropriate for now at start-up
 - Will need to move to a prioritization methodology based on client and market input after Choicelinx has multiple clients
- Hosting direction and companies being considered will ensure a low-risk operational environment for the web application

Concerns

- There is no firm plan for end-to-end system testing
 - Team did demonstrate knowledge of the need and the competency to do so
- Stress testing plans are not in place
- Data transmission and data sharing in the integration model are too labor intensive and will not scale well to multiple vendors

TECHNOLOGY REVIEW

Conclusions on technology and architecture

Conclusion

- The technology components in the systems environment are industry standard and low risk
- The implementation of SSL on the web server could be a performance issue

Conclusions regarding application and system analysis

Conclusions

- Application design is robust and scaleable.
- Database design appears to be robust
- Integration with TXEN design is intended to allow other TPAs to be integrated with Choicelinx's application

Concerns

- There is no way to easily integrate the enrollment application into a current (e.g., PeopleSoft) enrollment
 - If Choicelinx is not tightly integrated with the enrollment application or the benefits/payroll administration system, the employee will need to visit multiple sites to get the information necessary to select a medical/dental plan. The resulting reconciliation of what was selected on the Choicelinx site and what is fed to the payroll system will be difficult
- One solution is for Choicelinx to develop an API to allow an enrollment application to interact with Choicelinx in a B2B model

ACTUARIAL REVIEW

We reviewed the actuarial rate model and came to several key conclusions

- Underlying rate modeling process is presumed to be actuarially sound (however, we have performed no technical review)
 - We are uncertain as to whether the selection model will accurately predict utilization behavior changes
 - The prediction of expected future costs becomes more difficult with Choicelinx (benefits now variable)
- The Choicelinx product's ability to actually reduce total health care cost is unproven for a number of reasons
 - Potential for increased financial selection from the member selection process
 - Potential for increased costs from product mix shifts
 - Continued long-term exposure to cost trends (could lead to increased employer and employee contributions)
 - Potential loss of network discounts or cost control mechanisms

Product mix and plan efficiency will matter to employers

Assumptions

■ Scenario #1

- Choiceinx added on separately from other products/benefits
- Non-Choiceinx PPO is totally replaced
- Choiceinx PPO includes an additional 2% selection load and 5% loss of discount
- No cost trend is present, and cost for additional benefits is shifted to the employer

■ Scenario #2

- Same as Scenario #1 except Choiceinx is implemented as part of front-end flex offering and there is no selection load present

ACTUARIAL REVIEW

However, if Choicelinx builds a "best in class" PPO, the results for employers may be more favorable

Assumptions

■ Scenario #1

- Choicelinx added on separately from other products/benefits
- Non-Choicelinx PPO is totally replaced
- Choicelinx PPO includes an additional 2% selection load and 10% gain of discount
- No cost trend is present, and cost for additional benefits is shifted to the employee

■ Scenario #2

- Same as Scenario #1 except Choicelinx is implemented as part of front-end flex offering and there is no selection load present

ILLUSTRATIVE

Product Offerings	Current		Future Scenario #1		Future Scenario #2
	Member Mix	Estimated Cost	Member Mix	Estimated Cost	Member Mix	Estimated Cost
HMO	30%	$100.00	20%	$99.34	30%	$100.00
PPO	30%	$110.00	50%	$99.79	30%	$99.00
POS	30%	$106.00	20%	$105.30	30%	$106.00
Indemnity	10%	$125.00	10%	$125.00	10%	$125.00
Total/Average	100%	$107.30	100%	$103.32	100%	$104.00
Projected Change in Cost				-3.7%		-3.1%

We have several recommendations based on our actuarial review

- Advertising and sales literature should not focus on total health care cost savings
 - The focus of the literature should be on areas where Choicelinx might reduce costs
 - Best-in-class PPO with better-than-average network discounts
 - Savings created from disease and medical management programs
 - Increased operational efficiencies created from Choicelinx linkages and processes, resulting in lower administrative fees
- Choicelinx should reinforce the advantages of a total front-end Choicelinx flex offering
 - This will minimize product mix shifts and minimize mix shifts even more if current PPO is totally replaced by Choicelinx PPO
- Rely less on the premise that a member's benefit selections will become more cost effective over time (this remains to be seen)

MCO/EMPLOYER RESEARCH

Large employer/MCO had several responses to the Choicelinx product concept

- We tested the Choicelinx value proposition for large employers against:
 - Historic and reported drivers of purchase decisions
 - Towers Perrin consultants' reaction to Choicelinx, via interviews
- We also tested Choicelinx as an ASP-type partner for MCOs and the financial services sector:
 - In light of what we know they need
 - Based on recent marketplace interaction and anonymous interviews with several health plans

ChoiceInx needs to position itself to respond to the traditional selection criteria used by large employers

Measure	What It Means	Hypothetical ChoiceInx Scale
Network	Is the plan's network large enough to allow sufficient provider choice and access? To what extent does the network overlap with providers currently used by employees?	<input checked="" type="radio"/>
Cost	Are administrative prices competitive? Are medical costs competitive? Have trends been in line with the market?	<input type="radio"/>
Products	Does the plan offer a complete product portfolio? Does the plan offer HMO, POS, PPO, indemnity and Medicare Risk and supplemental products?	<input type="radio"/>
Customer service	Do account, member and provider service levels (e.g., responsiveness, claims payment timeliness and accuracy) meet or exceed competitive norms?	<input checked="" type="radio"/>

Summary conclusions

- Health plan selection criteria of today need to be recognized and addressed
- Employers appear interested in more choices and flexibility
- The Internet will be a key part of the solution

- Continued...

However, our consultants are skeptical

- Customization and choice are very appealing, but not at the expense of cost, quality or satisfaction
 - Choice satisfies only if “meaningful” and “understandable”
 - Greater interest in customization by the consumer segment, than standardization within the segment
 - Real skepticism about the ability to effectively manage massive choice

For MCOs, we developed a set of criteria for selecting e-health partners, and hypothetically "scored" Choicelinx

Evaluation Criteria	Choicelinx Score
1. Return on Investment <input type="checkbox"/> Will this product/service lower costs for the buyer? <input type="checkbox"/> How quickly can financial results be realized? <input type="checkbox"/> Does the solution/process "reinvent delivery of care"?
2. Market Attainment <input type="checkbox"/> Is this product targeted to a specific niche or segment? <input type="checkbox"/> Is the segment large enough to support a sustainable business? <input type="checkbox"/> Can it be realistically penetrated? <input type="checkbox"/> Is new technology actually needed?
3. Nimbleness <input type="checkbox"/> Can the company react quickly/flexibly to being opportunistically positioned?
4. Infrastructure <input type="checkbox"/> How well-developed/ready is the company to deliver?
5. Local/Regional/National Focus <input type="checkbox"/> Does the company have dominant local/regional market share as a springboard for national presence?
6. Management Team <input type="checkbox"/> Who is running the show? <input type="checkbox"/> Is there a visionary leader as well as depth in senior and middle management? <input type="checkbox"/> Can they service and deliver what they sell?

MCO/EMPLOYER RESEARCH

Our consultants are generally positive about Choicelinx's value proposition — at least for some MCO market segments

- Consumerism, per se, will be viewed by MCOs as nice to have, but won't drive purchasing
- However, Choicelinx could play to the dual business imperatives to web-enable the business and comply with HIPAA
 - National companies are moving quickly followed by regional/local HMOs, who currently lag behind
 - Web-enabled technologies currently deal mostly with "member and provider interaction around care delivery and claims (rather) than around benefit selection"
 - In the process of developing their web strategies, many health plans are realizing that partnering with a technology/web company makes sense
 - Health plans will most likely insist on maintaining their brand identity through co-branding with technology partners or maintaining their own identity through an ASP relationship

The financial services sector needs to be segmented

- As benefits administrators (e.g., Fidelity), ChoiceInX's technology (the benefit configurator) may fit
- Beyond this, their appetite to get back into health care would be only as a distributor for now

COMPETITOR ASSESSMENT

The competitive landscape for Choicelinx is two dimensional

COMPETITOR ASSESSMENT

Several competitor issues must be considered

- The competitive environment is changing rapidly
 - Players through new entrants and consolidations
 - Actual product offerings
- A competitive advantage for Choicelinx is clear
 - Facilitating the shift to consumer-driven health care through web-enabled technology that supports point of enrollment and mass customization of benefits
- There are no major players in the Choicelinx space today

COMPETITOR ASSESSMENT

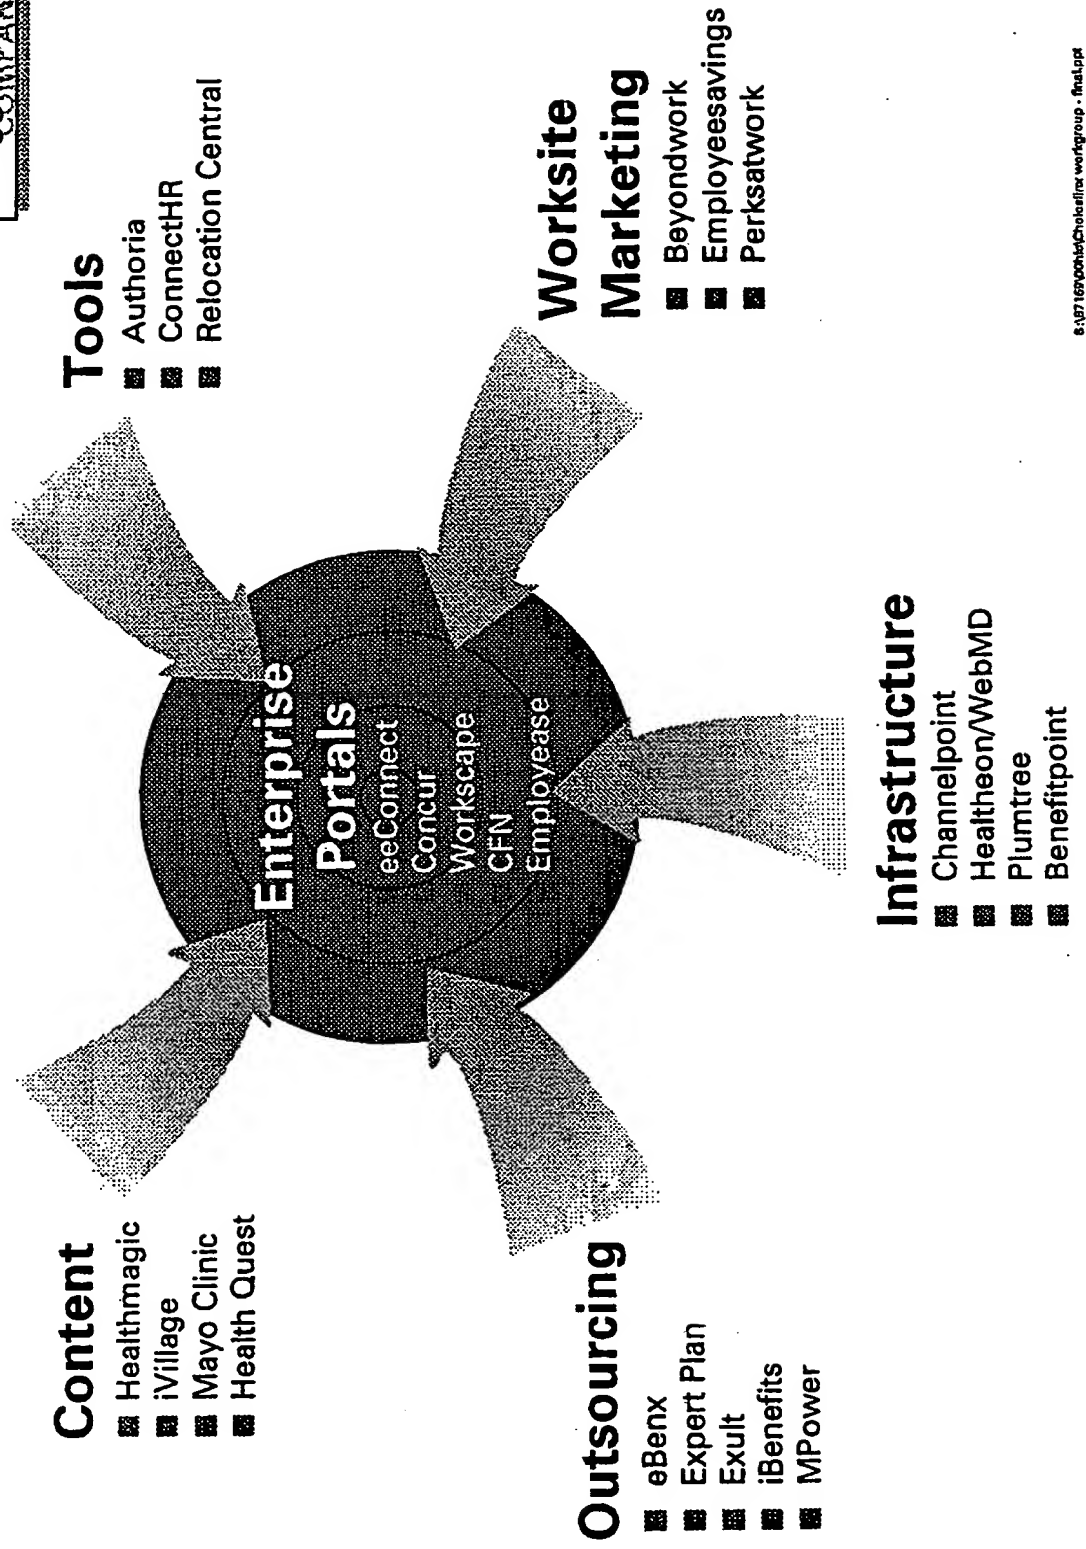

The employer market has recently been presented with a number of new options

- Vivius appears to be emphasizing consumerism in the same way as Choicelinx without using the PPO networks
- eHealthDirect suggests "virtual HMO" without clear differentiation
- Healtheon/WebMD could add certain elements to position itself to disintermediate health plans
- Med Unite could be a direct threat, but cross-company work is a challenge
- HealtheCare combines an MSA with catastrophic coverage and provides web-based consumer support tools

COMPETITOR ASSESSMENT

Competition for the employer/employee desktop is intense

■ Connectivity

■ Connect payers

- Examples are Healtheon/WebMD, HEALTHvision, Axolotl.com, Abatron.com, CyBear, Healinx, PointShare

■ Business to Business (B2B)

- Automating and streamlining the efficiencies mostly on the supply chain
- Examples are SCIQUEST, Chemdex, Medibuy.com, medicalbuyer.com

■ Business to Consumer (B2C)

- Selling products directly to consumers
- Examples are planetrx, drugstore.com, healthaxis.com

SUMMARY

Relative to your product and strategy, the following issues are what your potential buyers want help with

For Large Employers

<ul style="list-style-type: none"> Control trend Improve employee productivity 	Controlling costs	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> Control cost trend Improve profits
<ul style="list-style-type: none"> Increase HR efficiency, effectiveness Manage the changing workforce (merger divestitures) 	Utilizing technology	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> Comply with HIPAA Embrace technology to drive new business models
<ul style="list-style-type: none"> Increase employee empowerment De-couple from "managed care" as a liability 	Responding to demand for choice	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> Position for consumerism Increase product differentiation Reduce risk of litigation

Implications for Choicelinx vary by these two major market segments, and by subsegments

For Example:

- Concerns about product mix changes driving cost increases are eliminated in a "total replacement" scenario that:
 - Is only viable in the small and mid-sized employer market
 - Requires a complete health plan offering (including insurance)
 - Requires other partners
- Interest in choice plays well for Choicelinx, but choice means different things to different buyers
 - And for now, the employee is not the buyer

The relevant environment underlies much of the remaining discussion of alternative products and positions

We have evaluated several product alternatives for ChoiceInx with different customers and distribution channels

- Employers
 - Virtual PPO to self-funded large employers (current model)
 - Benefit configurator for all health offerings offered by large ASO employers
 - Sole source PPO to middle market
- Managed care organizations
 - Benefit configurator for the MCO's products
 - Benefit configurator for the MCO's products alongside the ChoiceInx PPO
 - Administrative capability for MCOs
 - Outsource administrator for MCOs
- Distribution through other organizations and HR portals

Our goal today is to identify and begin to fully flesh out the attributes and shortcomings for a small set of product alternatives

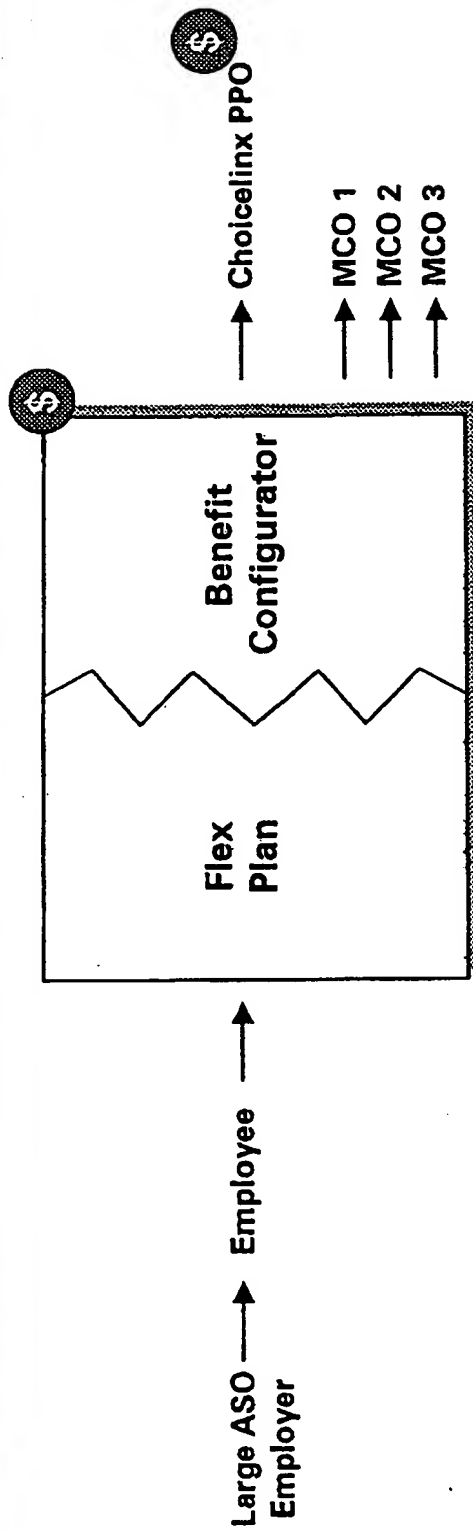

- The following pages describe the factors, market, pros and cons for each alternative, and evaluates them against a set of criteria
- Once we have identified the best alternatives, we will focus on a set of discussion questions to develop them further

Virtual PPO to self-funded large employers (current plan)

Folder TXN-MS-0024060 is a modification to the system which will review benefit set information on an eligibility file and search for a benefit set that matches. If one is not found, the system will programmatically build it on ME1049. So, we do not have to do any benefit set building for CLX. This is good news.

The schedule is for QA of this modification at the end of August and release at the end of September.

Hey Terry,

I believe Jonathan is trying to setup a meeting for us to discuss the building of the feeds for the Virtual Benefit Plan, but I wanted to touch base with you directly as well. We met this afternoon with Patrick, Kim, Jonathan and myself to discuss timelines and Patrick has great concern around where we're at with design of the Virtual Benefit Plan feed. I thought we were on one page last week but talking to Suzanne today it looks like we're not. I guess what I'm looking for is some type of a plan/design from your team as to how conceptually this is going to work. I've set forth requirements in multiple fashions and documented decisions made during meetings but, I think what's lacking is some formal statement that we can agree upon as to how we're going to build this. I realize that we're going through the standard channels with this by getting approval from your change mgmt team but, I think that between client and vendor we need to be on the same page today. Although, Chryss and Carolyn were successful this week in their reivev of our Benefit Plan to date, there is a disconnect as to what needs to be manually built in the Virtual Benefit Plan, what needs to get setup manually or electronically per group and what will be dynamically built to enroll the member. I think that they need to be involved as we make our decision how this will work or at least we need to have all team members from both TXEN and Choicelinx on the same page with our methods.

We've been discussing this item for well over two months now and we're running a bit late in the sense that we haven't agreed upon what it's going to look like yet. Of course it will be very cool, but I need to get a comfort for how cool!

I hope you have a wonderful weekend and I'll talk to you soon.
Thanks,
Lori

Subject: What we found out about Virtual Benefit Plan today

VPB was built to handle member choices of (Copay, Coins, etc.) what we've been asking is what variables do we have, response basically anything on ME1043 however, in the real world all if there are differences on any group accumulations that affects all benefit codes (lifetime max, OOP Max, etc.) or a selected amount of benefit codes (Mental Health Max) this would dictate a new benefit code. The reason being is that the code that tracks this accumulation is part of the definition of the Benefit code and the code itself 'grouper' has a specific limit on it.

So - for any of the above that change per group or member for that member, means a full copy of all of the benefit codes, essentially a full copy of the the VBP within the VBP.

What we've asked Terry look at adding a Grouper override. What this would allow is us to assign Generic 'grouper' codes to assign to the Actual Benefit codes, to collect them all together for accumulation counts, THEN go to the Group itself to find out what the actual max or limit is.

I know this is cryptic but, wanted to spit something out, I'm waiting for TXEN to give us something to review vs. me describing their system functionality again.

MANAGEMENT'S DISCUSSION AND ANALYSIS OF FINANCIAL CONDITION AND RESULTS OF OPERATIONS

The following discussion and analysis should be read in conjunction with the financial statements and related notes included elsewhere in this offering document. In addition to historical information, the discussion in this offering document contains certain forward-looking statements that reflect our current views with respect to future events and financial performance. Choicelinx Corporation's actual results could differ materially from those anticipated by these forward looking statements due to factors discussed elsewhere in this offering document.

Overview

Choicelinx products offer employers and employees significantly expanded choice and opportunities for greater personalization in their health benefits. They also provide a platform for integrating the buying decisions across all employee benefits, while providing employers with a comprehensive vehicle for the implementation of a defined contribution program.

Choicelinx specializes in products for the custom-configuration of employee benefits packages. The Company uses proprietary and licensed Internet technology and actuarial models to offer employers a vehicle through which their employees may personalize their healthcare and other benefits while drawing on the purchasing power of their employer.

Through this model, Choicelinx will address the growing consumer demand for choice and flexibility. Consumers will personalize their healthcare benefits using a Web-based solution set to custom-design their benefits according to their family's specific healthcare needs. In addition to health benefits, Choicelinx will provide for the configuration and integration of other employee benefits, such as dental and vision benefits, STD/LTD/Life insurance products, 401(k) plans, and retail health and fitness products. Choicelinx will appeal to those employees who desire the ability to personalize their benefits in the same way they can now customize virtually all other non-benefit purchases. Using the Choicelinx benefits configurator, employees will select individualized benefits, specific to their needs, from a broad menu of Web-based modules. Choicelinx technology allows employees to monitor the cost of each benefit selection and use that information to guide their choices throughout the benefits shopping experience.

Key Events

Since its initial funding [REDACTED] the Company has:

- Completed its alpha software product release.
- Completed its Application Service Providers (ASP) Product offering.
- Secured its strategic vendors, including its claims processing and national provider network partners.
- Created functional and technical design specifications for self-service transaction user interfaces.
- Completed eight consumer focus groups in Boston, Chicago, Atlanta and San Diego
- Completed user interface review and testing.

Results of Operations

Six Months Ended June 30, 2000

Revenues: The Company is currently in its start-up phase and accordingly, has not recognized operating revenues through the current period. Choicelinx expects to recognize initial revenues in [REDACTED]. See further discussion of revenues included in the Pro Forma Results of Operations.

Product Development: Product development expenses consist primarily of personnel costs for engineering and product development, expenditures related to Web-based technology design and content, payments to design consultants, server maintenance costs, and software development and operation expenses. For the six months ended June 30, 2000, product development expenses were [REDACTED]. See further discussion of product development included in the Pro Forma Results of Operations.

Selling, General and Administrative: Selling, general and administrative (SG&A) expenses consist primarily of personnel costs and related expenses for general corporate functions, including executive management, sales, business operations and finance. Also included are fees for legal and other professional services. For the six months ended June 30, 2000, SG&A expenses were [REDACTED]. See further discussion of SG&A expenses included in the Pro Forma Results of Operations.

Income Taxes: No provision for federal and state income taxes has been recorded as the Company has incurred net operating losses through the six months ended June 30, 2000. Due to the change in ownership interests in connection with this offering and prior sales of equity securities, use of these federal and state net operating loss carry forwards will be subject to certain annual limitations.

Preferred Stock Offering:

Pro Forma Results of Operations

Revenues: Revenues consist primarily of administrative and Managed Care Organization (MCO) fees from large employer clients and MCOs (herein collectively referred to as the "client base"). These fees are related to Choicelinx' proprietary configuration module, Web-based enrollment and billing service, medical management and overall administrative and claim services functionality. The fees are based on per member per month (PMPM) charges applied to the anticipated membership base at the end of each month. The PMPM fees have been derived based on our understanding of existing marketplace rates for employers and MCOs, as well as a revenue model developed to achieve our profitability targets. Membership projections assume a conservative close rate on the target population, with approximately two-thirds of anticipated business derived from MCOs. Because of the size of both the targeted employer groups and MCOs, significant membership will result from a relatively small client base.

[REDACTED]

[REDACTED]

[REDACTED]

Product Development: Product development expenses consist primarily of personnel costs for engineering and product development, expenditures related to Web-based technology design and content, payments to design consultants, server maintenance costs, and software development and operation expenses. The Company expects its product development expenses to increase substantially in the next twelve months as its Website and product base are further developed. Specifically, product development expenses in 2000 and 2001 are anticipated to reach approximately [REDACTED] respectively.

General, Selling and Administrative: SG&A expenses consist primarily of personnel costs and related expenses for general corporate functions, including executive management, sales, business operations and finance. Also included are fees for legal and other professional services. Specific increases in legal, accounting and financial advisory fees are anticipated to support the growth of the Company's business. Sales and marketing expenses are also expected to increase in absolute dollars for the foreseeable future, as expenditures for branding, promotion and marketing are incurred, new promotional agreements developed, and sales and marketing staff is expanded. Other SG&A expenses will also increase in the future, as additional personnel are hired and as additional costs related to the growth of the business and operations are incurred. Specific areas of expense, including claims, provider and medical administration are impacted significantly by membership volumes. In addition, the Company expects to expand its facilities and incur associated expenses to support the anticipated growth.

Liquidity and Capital Resources

Since the Company's inception, operations have been financed primarily through the sale of Choicelinx Corporation preferred stock and the issuance of notes payable. As of June 30, 2000, the Company had [REDACTED]. In April 2000, [REDACTED]

Although no material commitments for capital expenditures have been made, the Company anticipates substantial increases in capital outlays and lease commitments consistent with anticipated growth in operations, infrastructure and personnel. To this end, the Company expects to raise additional capital in the next twelve months to carry the Company's operations through profitability. [REDACTED]

Disclosure About Market Risk

Exposure to market risk is limited to interest income sensitivity, which is affected by changes in the general level of U.S. interest rates. Cash equivalents are invested with high quality insurers and limit the amount of credit exposure to any one insurer. Due to the short-term nature of the Company's cash equivalents, management believes that the Company is not subject to any material market risk exposure.

Subject: QA Slot

Hi Kevin,
Pamela said you might know of a QA person....we are looking for both a higher level person who could build the QA function as well as a junior level tester type. The QA will be primarily in two areas:
1- web development -- pretty large site
2- systems integration -- about 30+ feeds/real time calls to date and more on the way.
Thoughts?

I've ccd: Heather, our product development head, and Tim, our systems architect.

Subject: Update on Testing of Virtual Benefit Plan Feed

Importance: High

Hi all,

As a quick update, we've generated the file to load to TXEN. We came across a minor change in the layout and a data error on our part but, as of now the files should be all set.

I just spoke with Suzanne and asked her to bump the priority of testing this. Currently, Brady is working on the Design of the Acknowledgment files however, from our business standpoint we need to have this feed work first. Both the Beta groups we are looking at and the Investment firms for our second round are hinged on seeing the success of this automated build. The founders are on site today with the group that could potentially give us 200,000 lives and are anxiously awaiting these results :-). It's imperative that we show a success by the end of the week.

If there's anything I can do to expedite this please let me know. It's our time to shine and prove our concepts that the Choicelinx/TXEN-CSC partnership is beyond the leading edge!!!!

thanks.

Hi Lori-

I'd like you to do some pondering for me re: how you believe CSC/TXEN will scale for us in the long run. I want to make sure that you believe that the benefits autobuilding can be automated to the degree we want it to be. I also want to better understand your plans for managing multiple provider networks. I think I get it, but I'd be curious to get more details. Maybe when we're on the road next week to AL, we can discuss it.

Thanks,

Subject: Clarify Release Update

Hi,

Now that we have the new QA Server in, we're going to do our first 'Release' of Clarify next week, in hopes to do a company demo on 9/18.

- Deb & Craig are working on the technical aspects of migration and 'cutting a release' this week and the beginning of next week.
- Sue & Jen are working on some demo scripts in the mean time.
- We're meeting next Wednesday to finalize exactly what functionality Deb and Craig feel is complete that Sue and Jen are comfortable with demo'ing.

This is the first time we've been able to have a separate environment for user testing, training and demo'ing so once we've gone through this Release Cycle we'll be able to schedule releases on a more formal basis and track on the project plan.

Subject: Essential Points of Integration

Dear Chris and Agnes,

I've been thinking alot about the integration points for our two companies and have done a brief outline below of what we need to do to be successful. Hopefully we can use this as dicussion material for the call next Wednesday. Input from you ahead of time as to the feasibility/process of each would be useful for my integration group.

Essential Points of Integration:

- CLX will need to feed eligibility information to ESI – our preference would be to do this via XML versus a more typical, daily batch feed so that we can synchronize our eligibility databases more easily
- CLX will need to be able to have claimis inquiry capabilities into your system in a real time, secure mode – for example, today, with CSC, we call their APIs either a) from our website or b) from Clarify, our customer service software – this would be for member accumulator information as well as individual claim look up
- CLX will require claims extracts (minimally on a monthly basis) for our data warehouse – this data will be used for internal analysis purposes as well as integrated reporting for our employer and MCO accounts
- CLX customer service will need to be able to enter claims into the ESI platform if a member sends them to us for processing
- CLX will need a feed of Pharmacy Providers for use with our Provider Search functionality from the Web Site and the Clarify application. We currently pass provider data to GeoAccess.
- CLX and ESI will have to set up the ability to facilitate Funds Transfer for claims payment for the Self Funded groups.
- CLX will need to have access to any correspondence that is distributed to the members by ESI.
- Future points of integration to also consider would be: a) potential need to transfer live calls, chat or email sessions between call centers, b) some type of WIP (work in progress) request forms between call centers.
- I will not address here the Jupiter integration points around content or benefit selection. I do not believe there are systems integration points for the mail order services. I also will not address online ordering via PlanetRx. I think all of these issues need to be determined by the joint development group in Boston in a few weeks.

Whether we were doing Jupiter or not, the above list are essential points of integration. My big question after our meeting in St Louis is how these will be done by the E-commerce group versus your standard integration processes. Perhaps there is a blend? Any sample project plans, specs, etc would be useful to us as soon as possible.

In terms of the meeting next week...anything you can provide re: how you think we will integrate would be helpful. Your systems architecture overview would be helpful as well. I've pasted in below some information on ours.

Thanks,
Pat

CHOICELINX TECHNICAL PLATFORM SUMMARY

Choicelinx uses a combination of internally developed applications, turnkey solutions, and outsourced relationships to manage eligibility, benefits, claims, and provider data. Web site, Customer Relationship Management (CRM) and integration application software run on Microsoft Windows 2000-based servers hosted at an outsourced data center. Transactional systems, including claims management and payment functionality, run on IBM AS/400 servers at an outsourced data center. Integration between the various systems is accomplished through the use of message queue, distributed transaction, and data transformation technologies.

Security, performance, and stability are all key components of the Choicelinx Information Technology (IT) strategy. Application software and infrastructure are designed with these goals in mind. Proven network and application techniques are employed to protect data and provide a secure environment for the user.

Security audits and monitoring by a large security consultation firm ensure proper deployment and implementation of infrastructure components and software for maximum security.

Telecommunications, email, and "chat" are integrated with CRM applications to provide support for key customer support and call center functions. The CRM solution is customized to quickly provide accurate, appropriate, and complete data to customer service representatives.

Choicelinx will pursue a strategy of continual upgrade, improvement, and replacement of computer hardware, telecommunications hardware, and software.

Technical Platform Overview

Choicelinx has developed a flexible, robust, scalable, high-availability and fault tolerant technical architecture for implementation of high performance internet-based applications. The backbone of the architecture is based on Microsoft technologies running on Windows 2000 Servers. (See Exhibit 4).

The application development pattern is designed as an n-tiered Web application. Microsoft Internet Information Server (IIS) provides Web interface services, with Internet Server Application Programmer Interface (ISAPI) applications providing server-level functions (security applications, for example). Secure Sockets Layer 3 sessions are required for sensitive areas of the site. The scripting engine for IIS, Active Server Pages (ASP), manages primary presentation functionality. Component services, provided by COM+, are used to implement and manage business and data access components. Database services are accomplished through the use of SQL Server 7.

Integration interfaces with outsourced relationships are implemented using a combination of real-time, batched, and distributed queued transaction techniques. Standard Electronic Document Interchange (EDI) formats and Extensible Markup Language (XML) are used for batched transactions.

The infrastructure of the Choicelinx Web site is designed using a multiple firewall/DMZ approach, and will be hosted at an ISP/hosting vendor data center. External-facing firewalls will separate Web servers from the Internet. Web servers, clustered using hardware technologies (Cisco Local Director for example), will provide http/https services to users. A second set of internal firewalls separates the security zone in which the Web servers reside from the internal private class network/security zone where application and database servers reside.

Choicelinx application software uses an n-tiered architecture. The following tiers provide various services required by the application:

Client Tier: The client tier executes on users' desktop computers, providing an interface through which the users interact with the application. This tier is implemented using HTML and JavaScript running in users' Web browsers.

Security Services Tier: Sensitive areas of the site require Secure Socket Layer (SSL 3 or above) sessions from the Web browsers. SSL services are provided by IIS. An ISAPI filter executing in the IIS process space provides an additional layer of application-specific encryption and security services.

Presentation Tier: The presentation tier provides services for receiving data from business components and transforming the data into HTML for the client tier. This tier is implemented using the IIS scripting engine, Active Server Pages (ASP). Additionally, server-side Extensible Stylesheet Language (XSL) is used in areas where transformation from XML to HTML is desired or required. Separation of presentation logic from business logic permits redesign of user interface elements without modification of business components.

Business Tier: The business tier implements business logic and workflow rules for applications using a high-scalability pattern. Using transformed data from the data access tier and the presentation tier, business tier components enforce business and workflow rules, providing high-performance transaction-focused services.

Data Access Tier: The data access tier provides a high-performance interface through which business tier components can interface with the database. The data access tier abstracts database structures for the business tier through the use of data transformation services.

Database Tier: The database tier provides data storage, data security, and data retrieval logic services. Security is enforced through the strict usage of stored procedures for application database access and tight integration with security services.

KICK A--!!

- I love the left nav, the colors and contrast absolutely rock!
- Very nice touch with the "Contact Us" having a real names vs. an "info" anonymous email
- The Media Download Kit is awesome..... smokin'em

I jotted down some nit picky typo stuff, not sure if you were looking for that or not but, figured I'd note it if I saw it.

- I'm not sure about the outlined words that flash.. it doesn't look like the outline is bold enough or something. The rest of the page is so rich with color they look a little off, just a thought.
- Initial thought on the login is that it's a bit dark but, that's probably good if I was actually going in to login.
- On the Who we are Products, I would bump up the last bullet about on line provider payment look up so the last statement is the "While medical benefits are the first..." the other bullets kind of lead up to that as the big bang!
- Typo in Pat's Bio... "served as president and the Pero Consulting Group" should it say president and Founder of the
- Do we still but a Confidential statement on the .pdf downloads or just proprietary?
- Type on the brief company overview .pdf 'pint of enrollment'
- missing a tab in the last section of the company profile .pdf

Hi, folks!

Eyeon has released the latest version of the Choicelinx public site.

It would be VERY much appreciated if you could take a few moments of your busy day to review it and give us your feedback. We'd appreciate hearing from you by Monday/Tuesday of next week. In case you are unfamiliar with how to "get they-yah from he-yah", go to www.eyeoninteractive.com and type:

username: tims
password: legs

Then click on Design Comps and when prompted, type:

username: eyeon
password: greendress

Let me know if you have trouble accessing this page. Thanks again for your help.

Hi Pat,

Regarding the SPD/policies link, Tim will know better on those dates. We're just waiting for a final url address when it's done, and we'll be ready to connect and display.

We've been having a lot of trouble connecting to TXEN due to the Client Access ODBC drivers (we think). Tim has been diligently working with Craig on this. Once the connection is working, my best estimate for getting Clarify ready to display the returned data would be 1-2 weeks max. Craig has written much of the code required to send our request, so all we need is data returned to test, and screens to display the returned data.

Hi Tracey,
Looking good....here's my comments (excuse the terseness but i'm out of verbiage tonight!):

- 1 - the home page lists employees, employers, providers but when you click on one of them, the left nave is employers, employees, providers - the order is not consistent
- 2- the password/login box is too dark and too large...distracting
- 3- job listings are not posted and it says "insert list of job openings here"
- 4- somewhere should say we are in manchester (not full address) - probably in the job listings - so people know if they can get to us for work
- 5- i don't like the "configuration chart" - never have (even though I personally created it) and it is not easy to understand
- 6- i did not spell check it nor did i double check to ensure every link worked
- 7- IMPORTANT: we need to have the wording "Copyright 2000, Choicelinx Corporation" on EVERY page in order to protect our intellectual property - this must be done before we go live...we forgot it on the jelly bean pages.
- 8- in the media kit section, there is a typo in the headline "An" should be "A"
- 9- for the moving .gifs in the "choicelinx benefits" section, can they make the words a little darker? ie, "i'm three years from retirement" or "i run human resources".
- 10- what is the difference between "latest headlines" and "press releases"? detail?
- 11- we should start to work on product names for the various components of the system for the "Products" section
- 12- under "Events" section there are too many "-" (dashes) by the second line indentations
- 13- should "commercial launch" be on the "Events" for spring/summer 2001?
- 14- Served as President and the Pero Consulting should be "President of the Pero"
- 15- should WLRK be on the list? kind of weird unless this is more for investors.
- 16- assuming a "strategic partnership" section will be added to "who we are" over time with iMcKesson, CSC, etc.

Larger question: who "owns" the maintenance of the site? will eyeon do it or is it coming in house? will you continue to oversee content?

Thanks!
Pat

Subject: Feature Lists

Hi Dave and Lori,

RE: our discussions re: the need for feature lists for the Web App and for Clarify....I think we should provide the following info but not more detail then this at this time:

- Module (ie, Enrollment, Benefits, Customer Care Ctr)
- Feature Name
- Brief Feature Description (1 sentence or so)
- Release Date (or release quarter if specific date not set yet)

If we could go over this on Monday, that would be helpful in preparation for follow up with Tufts, BCBSMA, and Oxford (maybe BCBSNC depending on how today goes.)

Pat, Gary,

Here is the quote I request from John Saia that will be an addendum to our existing contract. This addendum will add the front end firewall solution to our site. Currently we are paying 23,100 for setup and 17,501 monthly. The prices in the attached quote will boost that to a total of:

Setup: $33,300
Monthly: $22,966

John is also revising our end state contract (for after the 1st of the year), and will forward that some time next week.

Pat, in order for these changes to take effect, you will need to print this contract addendum, sign it, and mail it to John Saia (attached). If you want to proceed with that today, I will take care of the paper work. If after today, could you also leave me a copy of the signed document?

If you have nay questions, please let me know.

Mark,

Attached you will find the revised quote for the front-end firewall. The quote is based on a "cold stand-by" firewall service.

I will revise the quote I sent to you last week for the January "ramp-up".

The January ramp-up will be based on the architecture diagram I received from Kathy Critch and will include pricing for the upgrade of the (2)

"cold stand-by" firewalls to HA firewalls.

Please give me a call if you have any questions. If you are ready to move forward with the front end firewall, please sign the attached quote and fax it back to me at the number below.

Thanks, John

CHOICELINX LAUNCHES A NEW GENERATION OF CUSTOMER-DESIGNED BENEFITS PRODUCTS

Company Enables Employers & Employees to Configure Individual Health Plans Online from Broad Array of Choices; Gives Insurers, Managed Care and Financial Organizations New Product Options

Manchester, NH, November 15, 2000 – Choicelinx Corporation, a benefits technology and services company specializing in a new generation of customer-designed benefits products, today launched its first suite of healthcare benefits products—in the process, taking a dramatic step toward true consumer-driven healthcare.

Using Choicelinx' proprietary, Internet-based benefits configuration technology and easy three-step process, members can build their own unique healthcare benefits packages. Choicelinx enrollees will have the ability to choose the level of coverage they wish on everything from medical and dental care to alternative medicine and vision care.

"Choicelinx is all about putting critical healthcare benefits choices back into the hands of consumers, where they belong," said Donna K. Lencki, Choicelinx Chairman and CEO. "We believe that providing information about the cost of benefits, which can be used to make educated choices, is in the best interest of employees. They know their families' needs better than anyone else." Lencki's knowledge of how employees choose their benefits comes from years of experience. Prior to founding Choicelinx, she spent more than 13 years as a senior executive for Healthsource, Inc., a 3.2 million member managed care company, and later with CIGNA HealthCare.

Choicelinx has combined state-of-the-art technology and medical management services with an experienced customer service team and expansive on-line management tools. These tools also can be customized and include claims tracking, physician service capabilities, e-mail and on-line chat, as well as comprehensive health and wellness information.

Exhibit GG

Lencki added that the Choicelinx product also benefits employers, because it can increase retention through enhanced employee satisfaction. "In today's strong economy, employers are faced with a tight labor market along with escalating healthcare costs," said Lencki. "By implementing the Choicelinx benefits plan, employers will now have a "high-tech, high-touch benefits offering that will support their efforts to attract and retain employees. It will also help employers to better predict and control benefits related costs."

Choicelinx uses a tested, actuarial model to allow for expanded choice while simultaneously managing selection risk. The product's actuarial underpinnings give employers the flexibility to allow their employees to customize their benefit plans at an individual level, with access to thousands of unique benefits combinations, without increasing their costs. Using Choicelinx, employers can expand employee choice through a single health offering rather than bear the administrative costs associated with offering many different plans.

The patented configuration technology solution can also be offered through traditional insurance companies, Managed Care Organizations (MCOs) and financial services companies licensing the Choicelinx technology. Today's trend toward "consumer-driven healthcare" has caused many MCOs and insurance companies to search for ways to incorporate expanded choice into their current product offerings. Recent changes to banking regulations give financial services companies the opportunity to expand their self-directed offerings into new product areas such as health. Choicelinx technology solutions offer these organizations self-directed, on-line capabilities that can significantly expand their traditional product offerings without incurring related development costs.

Lencki believes that Choicelinx is unlike other recently introduced benefits programs that purport to put choice back in the hands of consumers. "Choicelinx stands apart, because we truly give people the opportunity to custom-build their own plan with their own levels of benefits. Other 'choice oriented' programs simply let people select from among different plans, each with rigidly defined benefit levels. Choicelinx takes health care choice to new, unprecedented levels," she added.

Choicelinx Corporation is headquartered in Manchester, New Hampshire. To learn more about offering the Choicelinx solution in your workplace, visit the company on the web at <http://www.choicelinx.com>.

Subject: Development Process Update

Hey,

I met with Nigel, Rob, Dave and Tim today to discuss the project plan and our process going forward. Here's what we came up with.

1. We need to incorporate two new tasks to every development project.
 - a. Implementation Review - 1 day - To meet with Tim and talk about his vision as to how he would see the project progressing, discuss technologies involved and to finalize estimates.
 - b. Technical Design Spec Complete- 1 day - This will be a result of the Implementation Review but, until this happens the estimates can not be really finalized.

By putting in this additional step we can be proactive and give ourselves the chance to look at any impact in timeline prior to development vs. at the final phases of it. This will also allow for us to identify what learning curves may be encountered and determine who should write the Technical Spec.

2. Here's how we see the planning process happening.
 - a. Lori will receive development request or notification that a project will need development resources.
 - b. Lori and Tim meet to discuss available resources, skill set, and possible learning opportunities to assign a developer AND to put an initial estimate on the project.
 - c. Lori will work into the timeline and ensure that the assigned developer is brought into the project during some of the initial phases with Product Development.
 - d. Lori will meet with Tim and the assigned developer to get through the Implementation Review to finalize estimates and update the project plan.

3. Lori, Rob, Nigel, Tim, Dave and TBDs will meet Mondays from 9:30 to 11:00 to discuss timelines, planning process, communication of projects coming down the pike etc, etc..

4. It will probably take me a couple of weeks to really flush out the remainder of the timeline with them.

DONNA LENCKI, CHAIRMAN AND CEO OF CHOICELINX CORPORATION TO ADDRESS WASHINGTON BUSINESS GROUP ON HEALTH

Fortune 500 Companies Explore How the Internet May Change the Future of Employer-Sponsored Health Care

Manchester, NH, November 28, 2000 – Choicelinx Corporation Chairman and CEO, Donna K. Lencki will present at a meeting of the Washington Business Group on Health (WBGH) on Wednesday, November 29, 2000, in Washington, D.C.. WBGH is a coalition of leading Fortune 500 employers examining emerging trends in employer-sponsored healthcare plans. Lencki and other healthcare industry executives will present their perspectives on the evolution of healthcare in the coming years. The group will focus on the Internet and other new technologies that can support the movement toward consumer self-directed healthcare plans. This trend in healthcare resembles the shift in America's workplaces from defined pension plans to self-directed 401(k) plans.

Lencki said "Choicelinx' proprietary, Internet-based benefits configuration technology facilitates the shift to consumer-driven healthcare by offering employees the ability to configure unique healthcare benefits packages according to their specific family healthcare needs - from medical and dental care to alternative medicine and vision care."

These tools can be customized and include claims tracking, physician service capabilities, e-mail and on-line chat, as well as comprehensive health and wellness information.

Lencki added, "When people make purchasing decisions on virtually every other product and service they buy, they have access to extensive product feature and cost information. This is simply not the case today with healthcare benefits. For the first time, Choicelinx gives employees access to valuable cost information to help them make informed decisions when designing their own health benefits coverage."

Choicelinx uses a tested, actuarial model to allow for expanded choice while simultaneously addressing selection risk. The product's actuarial platform gives employers the flexibility to offer their employees the opportunity to customize their benefit plans at an individual level without increasing their costs. Hi Kerri -

Comments below:

- 1- agreed
 - 2- i'm not going to pursue the ESI-->CLX sales stuff right now -- I think it's unlikely in the short term anything will happen.
 - 3- we will do this.
 - 4- keep the links.
 - 5- agreed.

Pat,
Julie's document looked good. It helps pull the issues together. Just a few comments:

1. ESI Content on CLX site - We'll need to work with ESI on the exact content since we have certain legal restrictions and standards.
2. In the second section, ESI qualified lead - It's a good start at a high level. Not sure if it'll make sense to put pharmacy first. We'll need to define the workflow changes and determine together what works best. The benefit selection should be straight forward but we'll need to work through enrollment. Does ESI capture all the enrollment info we need? Will they pass it to us? Other insurance? How will we handle contract types? If a member wants to finish benefit selection at another time, do they come back through ESI or straight to us? This will take some work.
3. Post Enrollment, Pharmacy locator - we've been definite that we need to offer this functionality as part of our search. We'll need to discuss.
4. Post Enrollment, Customer option 2 - After enrollment are we totally separate? Will the member log directly into our site for medical information and if yes, do we turn off pharmacy links since they'd go to ESI for that?
5. Auto-transfer/login - #2 - we'll need to flush out for ESI leads.

Kerri

Kerri-

Thanks for taking a cut at this...I took your document and rearranged it a bit and added a bit. I broke the product integration down into 3 sections: Enrollment for CLX customer, Enrollment for ESI customer that uses CLX, and Post-enrollment. Note that I didn't include the majority of customer service issues in this document.
Also, I spoke with Jennifer...we're looking forward to the term sheet that you're putting together. Hopefully the attached document is useful...

Hope you're feeling ok...I heard the flu got the best of some of you!

It was good to see you both Friday...I think we made major steps forward! Following up, you mentioned on Friday that you'd do a first draft of the integration points we had discussed (in line with the letter of intent)--did you have a chance to do so? I'll be out of town for the 3 days, but I want to continue to push toward a definitive agreement, so anything you can push forward (in terms of outlining how this would work) would be much appreciated! In terms of getting things to me, email is the best way to reach me.
Thanks!!!

Thanks for your comments, Pat! I'm glad they were able to understand all that we've done with the Clarify product. I was equally impressed with their knowledge of the application and what we had to undergo with the customizations.

I have loaded all the provider data that Karl has in Choicelinx at this time. They are providers from only the Boston and NY regions. I'll follow up with him to find out when the remaining providers will become available, and thus loaded into Clarify.

Thanks to all of you for your patience while Craig and I built a new version of the QA Clarify database application. Lots of new functionality is included, which will be detailed in a document I'll send out soon. Feel free to log in and try out the new features!

A couple things to notice:

- There are about 33,000 providers loaded, each with an average of 2 locations.
- We will be going around to each of your machines and loading the software needed to use the Claims inquiry functionality. Until then, you will not be able to search for claims.
